CUE Center Offers 72 Hour Cash Reward

Seeking the direct location of Missing woman Allison Foy

Wilmington, NC – The CUE Center for Missing Persons will offer a $1,000.00 cash reward for missing Wilmington woman for seventy two hours; reward time will run Friday, August 24th from 12:00 midnight ending Sunday, August 27th at Midnight. Callers can remain anonymous. Information must provide CUE Center or local police the direct whereabouts and recovery of Allison Jackson Foy.

This reward is being offered in an effort to obtain good information that would provide Allison's location and bring an end to the nightmare her family is enduring, "said, CUE's Founder", Monica Caison. We plead for our community to help bring Allison's family a resolution, she added.

Allison went missing on July 30, 2006 from Junction Billiards off Carolina Beach Road in Wilmington, N.C. Days later the vehicle she was driving was located in the parking lot of the sports club. Neither her family, nor her friends have heard from her since. Numerous callers, with tips, have not produced the missing woman. What we have is a lot of people who look similar to Allison or simply not good information said her sister, Lisa Valentino, who arrived Thursday from her New Jersey home.
